

CONTEST RULES

Barbecue Competitors Alliance (BCA)

1. Definitions and Basics

- Ancillary* Any food item prepared for a contest category that is NOT one of the main barbecue meats of half chicken, pork spare ribs, beef brisket, or pork (Boston butt or shoulder). An ancillary category is also known as a jackpot category.
- Barbecue* Barbecue is the preparation of meat that is usually done in an outdoor environment by smoking the meat over wood or charcoal. The word barbecue is derived from the old European word barbacoa that translates as “sacred fire pit”. Barbacoa in this sense means a smoker or grill for cooking meat, consisting of a raised platform resting on sticks. The Barbecue Competitors Alliance (BCA) is dedicated to bringing traditional barbacoa to the modern public in the form of being the sanctioning body of choice for low cost barbecue contests.
- Contest Official(s)* The BCA contest official(s) (hereafter known as an official) is/are the person/persons who are assigned to manage the judging area during a sanctioned contest. These officials enforce BCA rules and follow BCA procedures. Officials will be trained to fairly and consistently apply contest rules and procedures at its contests. BCA will assign a minimum of one contest official to a given contest for about every 30 registered teams.
- Cooks Meeting* An organized session or meeting where the contest official(s) welcome participants to the event, review all important contest rules with an emphasis on unique site rules/limitations, and will officially announce the number of participants/teams and all turn-in times for the contested meats/ancillaries. BCA recommends the meeting be scheduled sometime during the evening on the day before the first meat is turned in. All participants are required to attend this meeting.
- Non-Traditional Contest* A contest where any legal fuel or energy source including wood, wood/charcoal products, gas, or electric, can be used as a heat source for this type of contest. There are no limitations as to a required number of contested meat or ancillary categories. All other BCA rules will be followed.

2024 Rules

- Participant/Contestant* A participant/contestant is any group or individual (hereafter known as a team) cooking in a BCA sanctioned contest with the intent of preparing and cooking barbecue and other items for judging in said contest. Each team will be comprised of a head cook and as many assistants as required. Promoters may restrict the number of assistants for logistical reasons. No team shall enter more than one turn-in box per meat category in a contest; BCA recognizes one head cook from each team. For the standard meat categories, all participants and judges must be 18 years of age or older. Persons who are between 16 and 18 years of age can participate as a head cook in a BCA contest with the assistance of a responsible adult who is not already cooking in the event. A child participant is a person that is younger than 16 years of age that cooks in an appropriate event. Persons who are between ages 16 and 18 years can judge in non-main meat or ancillary categories at a BCA event.
- People's Choice* A contest consisting of meat or ancillary products that is judged by the general public using a set of specific rules and procedures developed by the promoter. A People's Choice category or event is not part of the usual BCA contest and is administered by the promoter.
- Promoter/Organizer* A promoter/organizer is any group or individual (hereafter known as a promoter) who is putting together a BCA sanctioned barbecue contest. The promoters have the responsibility to select judges for their contest. The promoter may not cook in his or her contest.
- Sanctioning* Sanctioning implies a promoter agrees to follow all BCA rules during their contest. As part of a sanctioning agreement, each promoter promises to pay a predetermined yearly sanctioning fee as defined by BCA. In addition, the promoter also agrees to pay a per team fee (also defined by BCA) for use of the rules, and the usual and customary BCA official expenses to manage the judging area during the contest. A minimum of ten (10) teams is required for a BCA sanctioned contest.
- Traditional Contest* A contest where only wood or wood/charcoal products can be used as a heat source for cooking the meats. All other BCA rules will be followed.
2. Cooking Meat All meat will be cooked on site with no pre-marinating, injecting or pre-seasoning allowed. Pre-trimming of the meat, however, is allowed. No meat may leave the contest site after the conclusion of the cooks meeting or when preparation for the contest has begun. In general, BCA discourages meat inspection at its contests since there is no way to insure the inspected products are what are turned in for each category. However, inspection is appropriate for participants who missed the cooks meeting (with an approved excuse) or are first time contest cooks. This inspection can help ensure that their purchased meat is appropriate and that cold storage temperatures have been maintained.

3. Equipment

Each team will supply all of the equipment necessary for the preparation and cooking of their entry including a cooker, wood, charcoal, or wood pellets. For a BCA sanctioned Traditional Contest, only wood and wood/charcoal products are allowed as heat sources to cook the meats; however, a barbecue pit may include gas or electricity for starting the combustion of wood or wood/charcoal products but NOT to complete cooking. Cookers that use electricity to run augers, rotisseries, or similar non-heating devices are allowed. Pellet grills are allowed at BCA contests as long as the heat is generated solely by the fuel and not by any attached electrical or gas device. BCA encourages all participants to use their own cooking equipment. However, a maximum of two entrants can share the same cookers or pits during a Traditional Contest. Only winners of a BCA sanctioned Traditional Contest are eligible for the draw at the Jack Daniels World Championship in Lynchburg, Tennessee.

In the case of ancillary categories, the promoter can allow the use of gas or electric as a heat source. In this case, the promoter will make this intention clear in the contest registration forms and other related literature. Likewise, the BCA contest official will also make this allowance clear in the cooks meeting.

At a BCA sanctioned Non-Traditional Contest, any legal fuel or energy source including wood, wood/charcoal products, gas, or electric, can be used as a heat source for cooking the meats. All other BCA rules will be followed. The use of specific heat sources is limited to what is allowed by all local, state, and national laws.

Winners of Non-Traditional BCA Contests are NOT eligible for the draw at the Jack Daniels World Championship in Lynchburg, Tennessee.

Under no circumstances shall a BCA Non-Traditional Contest be held at the same time and location as a BCA Traditional Contest.

4. Sanitation

Cooks are to prepare barbecue in as sanitary manner as possible. It is advised that promoters provide power and water connections at or near the individual cook sites to aid in the overall sanitary conditions present at the contest location. When applicable, local health department rules override these rules on sanitation and must be followed.

2024 Rules

5. Categories

Cookoff promoters shall advise teams in advance of applicable barbecue meat or ancillary categories and other local rules or conditions. BCA recommends the following barbecue meat categories be part of every sanctioned contest:

- Chicken,
- Pork Spare Ribs, and
- Beef Brisket.

Pork (Boston butt or shoulder) can be included as a fourth barbecue meat category but is not required. Pork can be counted towards Grand Champion if desired. Participants will be notified at the Cook's meeting if Pork is counted towards Grand Champion. Promoters are free to add ancillary categories to any contest.

6. Double Tickets

BCA contests use a double-blind ticket system. This system assures a fair and unbiased competition. The system requires that two tickets bearing the same number be utilized, one firmly attached to the top of the judging container or side of a cup in a manner that hides the number, and the other ticket easily removed by the head cook for retention after signing the head cook's name in front of an BCA contest official or their representative. Winning numbers will not be revealed until time to announce each place in each meat category. At that time, the secret numbers attached to the container will be removed and announced.

7. Product Containers

Entries will be submitted in Styrofoam containers without internal compartment dividers with hinged lids and only a single piece of aluminum foil lining the bottom. No other garnish of any kind is permitted in the container. All judging containers shall be clean and free of any markings. The Styrofoam containers will have a minimum bottom size of about 9 x 9 inches. Larger Styrofoam containers (with a bottom size of about 13 x 9 inches) will be used for Chicken entries when the contest has 50 or more teams.

8. Turn-In Quantities

BCA requires that the promoter and/or the contest official advise all cooks of the exact quantities and cuts of meat that will be placed in the judging trays. This will normally be accomplished at the mandatory head cook's meeting. The BCA contest official or designated representative will inspect all trays at the time of turn-in in order to assure compliance with the turn-in criteria. Other than the single piece of aluminum foil, other garnishes and condiments are prohibited, as they do not reflect the true quality of the cooked meat. Meats may be cooked with sauces and/or other liquids, but once the cooking is complete, saucers and/or liquids may not be added once put into tray. While sauce can be used during cooking, there can be no puddling of sauce or any other liquid in the judging container. The container shall also not be marked in any way so as to make it unique and/or identifiable. Other than the piece of aluminum foil placed under each contested meat, objects such as small bits of metal or similar items, toothpicks, skewers, or stuffing are prohibited. Sculpting or positioning the meat in a box in such a way as to make the pattern unique or identifiable is also not permitted. The marked container requirements can be waived by a promoter for any contested ancillary category.

2024 Rules

(a) Main Meats:

Chicken: For contests with less than 50 participants, cooks will turn in one half (1/2) fully jointed chicken including the skin, breast, wing, thigh and drumstick. A wingtip does NOT have to be present for an acceptable entry. An entry with a missing wingtip is not considered to be marked. Each chicken entry must fit into the container and its lid must close. The backbone can be cut out if necessary. No Cornish game hens are allowed. For contests with 50 or more teams, BCA requires participants to turn-in two fully jointed half chickens in a larger 13 x 9 inch Styrofoam container.

Pork Spare Ribs: For contests with less than 50 participants, cooks will turn in seven (7) ribs, bone in, meat side up, with all product stacked parallel to the container hinge. All acceptable turn-in boxes will have three (3) bones stacked on top of four (4) ribs, with both layers parallel to the hinge. Full length and St. Louis cut spare ribs are both acceptable entries. However, baby back ribs, loin ribs, or country style ribs are not acceptable entries. For contests with 50 or more teams, BCA requires nine pork spare ribs with four (4) ribs stacked on top and five (5) ribs on the bottom in the same direction in a regular 9 x 9 inch turn-in box.

Beef Brisket: For contests with less than 50 participants, cooks will turn in seven (7) slices that fills the width of the container, about 3/8 inches thick or the approximate width of a #2 wooden school pencil. The fat cap of the brisket may be cut off after cooking. Likewise, the ends of the brisket can be cut off (blocked) either before or after cooking. The BCA contest official(s) will not accept any entry if its slices are too short and will likely not provide enough meat for judging. Blocked brisket is not considered to be a marked entry. If the slices are too long to fit in the box, curl the meat ends around the sides of the box (in a "U" shape). For contests with 50 or more teams, BCA requires nine slices of beef brisket in a regular 9 x 9 inch turn-in box.

2024 Rules

Pork: Containers should be filled with individual pieces of pork butt, shoulder, or similar cuts. Cooks should provide sufficient pork for judging to fill the container.

(b) Ancillaries:

Chicken Wings: Sauce can be applied/added to the product at any time during the cooking process. The promoter should specify the types and number of chicken pieces that are allowed in this category and how the product will be judged.

Dessert: In general, cooks should prepare sufficient product for the number of judges present at the event.

Gumbo: The promoter should specify the amount and composition of the product used for this category. Cups should be used to turn in this product.

Jambalaya: The promoter should specify the amount and composition of the product used for this category.

Kid's Que: Contest where children less than 16 years of age prepare one or more products for judging. Specific rules for these ancillary categories will be provided by the promoter.

Salsa: Product may be raw or cooked and is generally served at room temperature. The promoter should specify the amount and composition of the product used for this category.

Sauce: Fill a 12-16 ounce Styrofoam cup about three-quarters full with product. Each sauce entry can contain pieces of vegetables or other components smaller than the tip of your little finger.

Steak: In general, all cooks should prepare one type/cut of steak during a contest. The promoter sets the size, weight, and thickness of the meat that are allowed to be used in the contest.

Whole Hog: Defined as an entire pig, whose dressed weight is determined by the promoter and announced to the cooks before the contest.

Other: Cooks should prepare sufficient product for the number of judges present at the event.

9. Turn-In Times

Turn-in times for each category will be set by the contest official in consultation with the promoter. The selected turn-in times will be announced at the mandatory cooks meeting. The head cook or his/her representative must attend this cook's meeting. Once these turn-in times are set and announced, no changes will be made. The BCA contest official is authorized to make changes to these times in the event of an emergency and with full notification of all teams in the contest. A window of ten (10) minutes before and after the set turn-in times will be recognized, for a total of a 20 minutes. Product containers received at any time before or after each turn-in window will not be accepted for judging and are not considered to be a disqualification.

Turn-in times will be adjusted depending on the number of teams in the contest; this is to allow the judges to completely evaluate and score all samples. For contests with 25 teams or fewer teams, it is recommended that turn-in times be every hour (60 minutes); with more than 25 teams and less than 60 teams, an hour and a half (90 minutes) between categories is suggested. Contests with more than 50 teams and less than 90 teams should have two hours (120 minutes) between categories. Contests with 90 or more teams should have two and a half hours (150 minutes) between categories. The BCA contest official will make the ultimate determination for the turn-in times and judging schedule for all categories.

10. Late Arriving Cooks Any participant who does not make the scheduled cooks meeting must contact the head official(s) before the scheduled start time of the meeting stating they are coming to the contest and will arrive late. Late arriving cooks/teams are subject to a mandatory meat/site inspection by the contest official(s) or their designate. The predetermined turn-in times and other announcements will be given to these late arriving participants the following morning when they pick up their turn-in boxes. It is the sole responsibility of any late arriving head cook to obtain the turn-in boxes and all necessary information to compete in the contest.

11. Judging BCA recommends that a computer application be used to score all its barbecue contests. At a minimum, contest official(s) will train prospective judges on BCA rules and procedures before the start of each turn-in window. For chicken, judges will be advised to taste either white or dark meat for all samples, depending on their individual preference. Judges should bring any potential raw chicken samples to the attention of the BCA contest official(s).

If 17 teams or less are entered in the contest, there will be one round of judging. If there are more than 17 teams but less than 60 teams, there will be a preliminary and a final round (two rounds) of judging. Three or more rounds of judging will be used for contests with more than 60 teams. The number of containers in each round will be set to reduce the number of samples to about half the previous round. The BCA contest official will predetermine the number of top results from each preliminary judging table that will be sent on to subsequent levels of judging. The contest official will make the final determination as to the number of judging rounds used in any BCA contest.

Judges should be drawn from the general public. Judges for the main meat categories MUST be at least 18 years of age. No team/family members will be allowed to judge on the final table. Head cooks are prohibited to participate as judges. The BCA official can disqualify any judge for just cause. Persons between the ages of 16 to 18 can judge in ancillary categories. Persons under 16 years of age can judge Kids Que events.

BCA recommends that a minimum of five (5) judges per table be utilized during all non-final rounds of judging. The final round of judging should utilize a minimum of seven (7) judges per table. For all rounds, BCA also allows promoters to use a maximum of nine (9) judges per table. BCA requires that no smoking should take place in the judging area. Judges are only allowed to drink water while sitting at a table.

For products presented in all rounds except the finals, judges will score each entry on a scale of two to ten (2-10), in whole number increments (i.e. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, and 10). A score of 10 is the highest score any product can achieve. Conversely, a score of 2 is the lowest score any judge can give a product. Any whole number score between 2 to 10 is allowed. A score of zero (0) is not allowed. Judges will score each entry immediately after it is tasted. Judges will not compare entries to assign scores. Judges will use an approved BCA score sheet to record their assigned scores for each entry. Word descriptions for each assigned number are printed on the bottom of the judge's score sheet.

For products making the final round, judges will score each entry on a scale of 6.0 to 10.0 in half-integer increments (half whole numbers). A score of 10.0 is the highest score any product can achieve. Conversely, a score of 6.0 is the lowest score any judge can give a product. Any half-integer score between 6.0 and 10.0 is allowed (i.e. 6.0, 6.5, 7.0, 7.5, 8.0, 8.5, 9.0, 9.5, and 10.0). A score of 10.5 is not allowed. Judges will use an approved BCA score sheet to record their assigned scores for each entry. Half-integers will only be used for scores in the final round. Word descriptions for each assigned number are printed on the bottom of the judge's score sheet.

BCA recommends that a maximum of twenty (20) containers be assigned to each judging table. It is recommended that a predetermined number of top scoring results from each preliminary table be sent to subsequent levels of judging.

2024 Rules

Comment cards can be used at the discretion of the BCA contest official. If used, judges are given the option of using official BCA comment cards to give cooks written feedback on their entries. Judges will be instructed to give cooks constructive comments during their training session. Judges will be required to provide comment cards for entries with scores of less than five (5) in all rounds except the finals. For the final round, judges will be required to give a comment for a score of six (6). Comment cards will be given back to the cooks at a place determined by the BCA contest official(s) after the awards ceremony. BCA contest official(s) reserve the right to throw out the entire score sheet for any judge at any table who refuses to write a comment.

12. Disqualifications

If a container is found to be in violation of these rules, then it will be disqualified at the sole discretion of the BCA contest official(s). Marked containers are not permitted and will be disqualified by the BCA contest official. Chicken entries that are deemed to be raw by the BCA contest official will be disqualified. Entries that are disqualified will be awarded a score of one (1) by the contest official for each participating judge. The decision of the BCA contest official concerning entry disqualification is final. Judges can only give a one (1) to an entry if directed to do so by the BCA contest official(s).

13. Winners and Prizes

BCA recommends that the total number of places called be based on the minimum number of competitors in any of the contested meat categories. For contests with less than 50 entries, a total of ten (10) final places will be defined. Here, a total of ten (10) points will be awarded for a 1st place finish to 1 point being awarded for a 10th place finish in each meat category. For contests with 50 or more submitted entries, BCA will define 15 final places. A total of 15 points will be awarded for a 1st place finish down to 1 point for a 15th place finish in each meat category. No points will be awarded for any entries in addition to what was defined above. With approval of the promoter, more places can be announced, especially if prizes are awarded to those finishers. In the interest of recognizing winners, these places will be announced regardless of prizes or trophies being awarded.

BCA uses a cumulative point system for each meat. The head cook/team with the highest number of cumulative number of points in the contested barbecue meat categories will be named Grand Champion. Likewise, the head cook/ team with the second highest cumulative number of points in the contested barbecue meat categories will be named Reserve Grand Champion. Cooks/teams with smaller numbers of points in the contested meat categories will be listed in decreasing order from Grand Champion and Reserve Grand Champion. In all cases, the overall results from only the contested barbecue meat categories are used to calculate BCA Grand Champion, Reserve Grand Champion, and any overall or category placings. The top overall winners as well as the defined finishers in each of the meat categories will also be announced and posted on the BCA website. Other overall prizes can be awarded at the discretion of the promoter.

Each ticket number will be individually announced at least three separate times at the awards ceremony. A given placing for each contested item can be “claimed” by cooks at the awards ceremony by presenting their physical ticket to the contest official(s). Electronic facsimiles or other copies of the ticket numbers will not be accepted. The contest official(s) or their designate(s) will compare the number of the presented ticket to the one pulled from the box for each placing. Cooks will be awarded the appropriate placing for the category when the numbers match. Any ticket that is not claimed by a competitor for a given placing will be identified as “unclaimed”. This means the official BCA records will indicate that “unclaimed” will get credit for all placings where the identity of the cook/team is unknown. Claims for placing entries in all meat categories must be made to the contest officials(s) sometime between the time when a ticket number is initially announced to the time just after the final table ticket numbers for brisket are announced. No extension to this time window will be allowed. Any placing that remains unclaimed after the final table ticket numbers for brisket are announced will be shown and marked as such in the final BCA contest results. Points towards grand champion will not be calculated for any unclaimed entries. Unclaimed entries cannot win Grand or Reserve Grand Champion and cannot win any other prizes.

14. Tie Breakers

In the event of a tie in any meat category for any defined place in the final round, the sample products will be re-evaluated by a panel of persons who have already judged that meat in the final round. The BCA contest official will select the persons who comprise each tie-break panel in such a way that there is always an odd number of judges. After tasting each tied entry a second time, judges will be asked to rank them in order of preference. Each judge will give the entry they like best a score of ten (10). Judges will then give the entry they like second best a score of nine (9). This procedure will continue with the third best entry getting an eight (8) and fourth best entry getting a seven (7), and so forth until all the polled entries for a given tie are considered. The entry with the largest number of votes in each panel breaks the tie and finishes in the highest place. The entry with the second highest cumulative score finishes one place below the entry above, and so forth until all the tied places are finalized. This procedure will be repeated until all separate ties in the top ten are broken. The decision of these judges is final.

In the event of a tie for only Grand Champion, the greatest number of announced finishes (walks) by a cook in the top 10 or 15 places

2024 Rules

(depending on what is used in the contest) will be the first tiebreaker. Subsequent tiebreakers for Grand Champion (in order) will be scores for brisket, pork spare ribs, chicken, and pork (if contested as a main meat). For Reserve Grand Champion and all other placings in the contest, the first tie breaker will be scores in brisket followed by pork spare ribs, chicken, and pork (if contested as a main meat). The greatest number of announced finishes or walks by a cook will be used to only break ties for Grand Champion.
